Management should consider both the short-term and long-term implications of the proposed changes. The proposed changes should be evaluated in terms of their impact on the organization's financial performance, its ability to attract and retain talent, and its overall reputation. The proposed changes should also be evaluated in terms of their impact on the organization's ability to meet its strategic goals and its commitment to its stakeholders.

These findings suggest that the use of a single, standardized, and validated instrument to assess the quality of care in the home is feasible. The use of such an instrument would allow for the collection of data on the quality of care in the home, which could be used to identify areas for improvement and to develop targeted interventions to improve the quality of care in the home.
